

2016 FALL METRANS RESEARCH SEMINAR

Thursday, August 4, 2016
12:00 PM to 1:30 PM
USC – University Gateway (UGW) 100 B

RSVP to Kaitlyn Zhang at kenanzha@usc.edu

The Rise of Instant Delivery Services in European Cities; What are the Potential Impacts on the Urban Freight Routine?

Presented by Laetitia Dablanc

Jointly Sponsored by  MetroFreight Center of Excellence

Laetitia Dablanc, Ph.D., is Director of Research at the French Institute of Science and Technology for Transport, Development and Networks (IFSTTAR, University of Paris-Est, France), part time visiting professor at the University of Gothenburg, Sweden, and a member of MetroFreight (a VREF Center of Excellence in urban freight research led by the University of Southern California).

Her areas of research are freight transportation, freight and the environment, urban freight and logistics, rail freight, freight transport policies. She received a Ph.D. in transportation planning from École des Ponts-ParisTech, and a Master's degree in city and regional planning from Cornell University. She was initially trained in policy analysis and economics at Science Po Paris.

She is currently working on logistics sprawl issues and freight transport planning in U.S. and European megaregions. For that, Laetitia was a visiting scholar at the Georgia Institute of Technology (2010-2011) and the University of Southern California/METRANS (2011-2012). She is a member of the steering committee of the World Conference on Transport Research Society.