Welcome to this week’s issue of METRANS On the Move, a student-run weekly transportation newsletter. Throughout the summer, we will continue to bring to you transportation related news and opportunities and will feature achievements by our new graduates. This week we feature our Opportunities Editor Lin Zhu and many exciting scholarships and job opportunities. If you have suggestions for content or opportunities – events, scholarships, internships, jobs, and more – that you’d like to see included, just reach out to me or any member of the student staff (listed at the bottom of each issue). We are excited to hear from you!

Introducing METRANS On the Move Opportunities Editor Lin Zhu
By Priyanka Ramasamy, MSCE 2018 USC Viterbi School of Engineering

We are pleased to introduce our METRANS Opportunities Editor, Lin Zhu. Zhu was born in China and earned a Bachelor’s degree in Traffic Control Engineering from North China University of Technology at Beijing, China before coming to USC to pursue a Master of Science in Transportation Engineering. She expects to graduate in May, 2019. “Her positive, can-do attitude is accompanied by strong organizational skills and attention to detail, she has continually exceeded our expectations, and is a wonderful addition to the METRANS family.” Read more here.

The Apple car to finally hit the road, only it's a VW Bus

After years of trials aimed at remaking driving in the mold of the iPhone, Apple is finally building some self-driving electric cars to test on roads in the San Francisco Bay Area—and they’re Volkswagen buses. The New York Times reported on Thursday that, after years of looking for a partner among automakers, Apple has teamed up with the German automaker to convert VW T6 vans into self-driving, electric shuttles to ferry Apple employees to and from work at the company’s headquarters in Cupertino, California. The vans will be outfitted in Italy with Apple’s self-driving sensors and software, along with an electric powertrain and batteries. Read more here.

Uber and Lyft Could Do a Lot More for the Planet

Lyft announced that all passenger rides will be carbon neutral, indefinitely. The plan is to cancel out vehicle emissions by investing in carbon offset projects, while eventually phasing out all fossil fuel vehicles from its fleet. The move bolsters the company’s image as a greener, more socially conscious alternative to Uber, its major competitor, which has not made such a pledge. But any company that casts itself as a model of sustainability should draw extra scrutiny. There, it’s not clear that Lyft—or Uber, or any ride-hailing company—stacks up as a good environmental citizen in the broader landscape of transportation. Read more here.

Scholarships & Academic Opportunities

Mistra SAMS International Young Researcher Grants
Sustainable Accessibility and Mobility Services

The Mistra SAMS program seeks to engage young, international researchers as active partners in collaborative and comparative research projects within the program’s core areas of scientific interest and invites Ph.D. students and young researchers in early stages of their career (max 5 years after Ph.D. completion) to apply for grants for short-term research visits at Swedish universities or other research environments within the program.

Successful candidates must have documented scientific competence (or ongoing Ph.D. work) in an area of core relevance to a specific scientific team or work package within the Mistra SAMS program. Only Ph.D. candidates or researchers with a Ph.D. degree granted within the past five years will be considered.

Invitation to apply for grants is continuously open.
