Local Students Access Industry Insights on Autonomous Vehicles
By Rui (Rae) Zhang, USC Price School MPL, Transportation, 2018

On Thursday, May 31, 2018, local transportation students were sponsored to attend a WTS-LA breakfast panel event to learn industry experts’ insights on connected and autonomous vehicles (AV). The panel presented a comprehensive coverage of views on the impacts of AV on future transportation developments, multi-level public sectors seeking to connect AV with existing infrastructure, a traffic signal consulting firm exploring AV communications, and an auto manufacturer combining cutting-edge technologies and innovative automobiles.

Self-Driving Cars Are Coming. Will They Serve Profit or the Public?

Under ordinary circumstances, the death of a homeless woman trying to cross a road in Arizona would barely arouse notice. But the March 18 death of Elaine Herzberg, 49, in Tempe, was an international news event as she was struck by a Volvo SUV steered by Uber’s self-driving car technology. She was the first pedestrian killed by a self-driving car. Until recently, self-driving cars were an abstraction, a dreamy, far-off idea. Now they are literally crashing into us.

Twenty-four U.S. cities are either running autonomous vehicle (AV) test programs or have committed to doing so, according to the Bloomberg Aspen Initiative on Cities and Autonomous Vehicles. Read more here.

How Ride-hailing Could Improve Public Transportation Instead of Undercutting it

Over the last half-decade, public transit ridership declined nationwide. The number of vehicle miles traveled in cars is rising, and traffic congestion is getting worse in many U.S. cities. At the same time, the century-old taxi industry is struggling, with many taxi companies going bankrupt. While ride-hailing threatens public transit, it is also key to its future success – but only with smart policies and the right price signals. People are choosing ride-hailing because transit does not match the comfort and convenience offered by private vehicles, and taxis cannot offer the affordability and transparency of app-based ride-hailing. Transportation Research Board Webinar
Preparing and Using Airport Design Day Flight Schedules

Wednesday, July 18, 2018, 11:00 am to 12:30 pm

TRB will conduct a webinar that features research from the Airport Cooperative Research Program (ACRP)’s Research Report 163: Guidebook for Preparing and Using Airport Design Day Flight Schedules. Airports use design day flight schedules (DDFS) for a number of different purposes, including planning for airport operations and facilities, airfield and landside modeling, and construction phasing. The presenters will discuss these uses and provide information on how airports can prepare their own DDFS.
Webinar Presenters
Patrick Kenkon, HNTB Corporation
Rick Busch, Jviation, Inc.

Scholarships & Academic Opportunities
Mistra SAMS International Young Researcher Grants
Mistra SAMS International Young Researcher Grants
Sustainable Accessibility and Mobility Services

The Mistra SAMS program seeks to engage young, international researchers as active partners in collaborative and comparative research projects within the program's core areas of scientific interest and invites Ph.D. students and young researchers in early stages of their career (max 5 years after Ph.D. completion) to apply for grants for short-term research visits at Swedish universities or other research environments within the program.

Successful candidates must have documented scientific competence (or on-going Ph.D. work) in an area of core relevance to a specific scientific team or work package within the Mistra SAMS program. Only Ph.D. candidates or researchers with a Ph.D. degree granted within the past five years will be considered.

Invitation to apply for grants is continuously open.

Researchers

California Policy Lab

California Policy Lab is searching for three, full-time research positions, including a post-doc position in labor economics, one Ph.D. level staff position for homelessness research, and one statistical data analyst. These positions will work on a range of projects with me and with faculty and staff at the California Policy Lab, a new initiative at UCLA and UC Berkeley that supports research partnerships between university academics and California state and local government, focused on the analysis of administrative data. They are described in more detail below.

1) A post doc working directly with me on projects in labor economics based on a range of confidential administrative data sets.
2) A full-time Ph.D. level Research Director with the California Policy Lab (CPL).
3) A third position is for a full-time data analyst.

For more information about the California Policy Lab and to learn more about our current projects, visit: www.capolicylab.org

If interested, email Kelle Taylor at kelletaylor@ucla.edu with resume and cover letter.
